I have lived and worked in the Roaring Fork Valley as an architect for 10 years. In that time I have worked on various historic preservation projects both from the architectural side, and for a time, as a member of the City of Aspen HPC. I believe and understand that there is not a prescribed solution to every historic resource, rather each case has it's own unique issues to address. That is where the role of the Commission becomes important. Historic resources are cultural and economic assets to the community and should therefore have community input when it comes to implementing the guidelines.
