NEWS RELEASE

Northglenn Mayor Pro-Tem Carol Dodge Elected CML Board President

(Northglenn, CO) Carol Dodge, Ward I City Council member and Northglenn mayor pro-tem, was elected president of the Colorado Municipal League (CML) executive board for 2017-18 at the 95th Annual CML Conference held June 20-23 in Breckenridge. This is Dodge's third senior board position, she served as vice-president for 2016-17 and as board secretary/treasurer during 2015-16. The executive board is comprised of 21 elected and appointed individuals from municipalities.

Dodge was elected to her first term on the Northglenn City Council in 2009 and ran unopposed in 2013 for her current second term, in which she is serving as mayor pro-tem. She has owned and operated a successful small business, Dodge Sign Co., in Northglenn for more than 20 years, and the company received the Outstanding Community Impact Award from the City in 2013. Carol currently serves as council liaison to the Northglenn Youth Commission, the Northglenn Senior Organization, and the Northglenn Arts and Humanities Foundation and has been on the CML Policy Committee since 2009. Carol has been an advocate for north area transit projects, neighborhood revitalization, community involvement, and numerous volunteer organizations.

Sam Mamet, CML's executive director, says, "We look forward to a terrific year with Carol serving as CML's president. Carol has proven herself to be a dedicated advocate for local government. I am confident that her experience and insights will ensure that CML continues to be the primary source for municipal officials statewide for their advocacy, information, and training needs."

Founded in 1923, the Colorado Municipal League is a non-profit, non-partisan organization providing high quality resources and services that empower municipal governments to sustain strong, healthy, and vibrant cities and towns. In addition, 269 of the 272 communities in Colorado are members of CML, a testimony to the value it has to the cities it serves.
